

Skill Business @ 2018

Facts, Opportunities and way forward

India is known to possess a significant demographic dividend due to its large and growing population in the 15 to 59 year age group estimated to be upwards of 600 million currently. This large working age population can make a significant contribution to the country's growth provided it is equipped to be productive.

India's training infrastructure which mainly consists of government Industrial Training Institutes (ITIs) and Industrial Training Centers (ITCs) currently has a capacity of 3.1 Mn seats and is vastly inadequate to meet the diverse skill requirements of the population. While almost 90% of the 450 Mn jobs in India require vocational skills, currently only 7% of youth (15 to 29 years) receive any kind of formal or informal vocational training .

Taking cognizance of this deficit between demand and supply, the government has set an ambitious plan of training 500 Million individuals by 2022, translating to training 42 Million a year. The 11th plan emphasizes on the need for Public Private Partnership (PPP) to make this a reality.

The National Skill Development Mission, under the Prime Minister's Council has been entrusted with meeting 30% of this target by providing viability gap funding to the private sector. A number of schemes have been set up under various ministries to facilitate vocational training through PPP.

The target of training 500 Mn people by 2022 roughly translates to a Rs 21,000 Cr annual spending in vocational training every year up to 2022. While current activity levels across ministries and schemes are significantly lower, the opportunity is still large enough for the private sector to take serious notice.

By looking to the opportunities many organization including private sector ventured into the vocational Training space.

But as we all know that taking government project and running the skill initiatives is not the viable model and ability contribute significant. We have to develop hybrid and robust model to be leader in skill business.

It is fact that industries need skilled manpower, youth need employment and we need business. There are lots of opportunities but something is missing therefore we discussed together and prepare roadmap to be leader in this sector and contribute immensely in social sector.

We would like to invite you to join us in such wonderful discussion.
